Privacy and Security—A Matter to Know

The Delta Chelsea Hotel-33 Gerrard Street, Toronto, ON
Nearest intersection: Gerrard/Yonge (easily accessed from Union Station, by subway, by street car, etc.)

May 29-31, 2011

Maintaining security and privacy has always been a delicate balancing act for business. We do not have to look very far to see how employers and their security operations are challenged as they protect their employees, visitors and proprietary and intellectual information. Today privacy and security operate hand in glove and go beyond the physical aspects of protection. How do you provide quality customer service while at the same time protecting their personal and private information? What really are the answers to the confidentiality and privacy equation?

“A Matter to Know” will be bringing together high-level representatives from the provincial and federal governments and law enforcement as well as experts in the private sector. They will inform and educate you and give you the answers to the most frequently-sought questions. This conference, with its high-value presenters, will educate and provide awareness as to the “best practices” in client engagement and customer privacy protection.

Come join us at the conference—to meet, engage and advance with other professionals who are taking the security industry to the next level.

The Canadian Society for Industrial Security (CSIS Inc.) was founded in 1954 and federally incorporated in 1961 as a not-for-profit national organization. Its mission is to provide and promote professional security leadership through advocacy, ethics, standards and education. Most members have ties - past or present - with law enforcement agencies, the security industry, emergency preparedness and response teams, fire departments, tactical emergency medical services and all levels of government. Security-conscious students, job seekers and professionals from other industries continue to be a welcome complement to our membership.
